Academic Programs

Academic Programs works with campus partners to provide undergraduate students key resources to enhance their academic progress. Services include: Peer-Led Team Learning, Residential Peer Mentors, Walk-in Help Desks, Academic Mentoring, and Graduate and Professional Test Prep Courses and Personal Statement Workshops.

Academic Programs provides various types of academic undergraduate students.

Our Peer-Led Team Learning (PLTL) program for General Chemistry 1 and 2 and Calculus 1, 2, and 3 provides weekly collaborative learning facilitated by a Peer Leader.

Residential Peer Mentors (RPMs) provide walk-in peer mentoring the South 40 residence halls for Calculus and General Chemistry, while our Walk-in Help Desk for Physics is located in Cornerstone and other convenient locations. Additional courses with walk-in support are featured on our Finally, we offer Graduate and Professional Test Preparation opportunities for the MCAT, LSAT, and GRE for all Washington University students and employees, as well as Personal Workshops. Questions? Visit cornerstone.wustl.edu/academic-programs by our office in Gregg Hall during regular business hours.

TRiO SSS

TRiO SSS is a federally funded grant administered through U.S. Department of Education.

Students who are eligible to participate in TRiO are required complete an application.

For more information regarding eligibility, the application and support services, please visit Cornerstone’s website. Washington University’s TRiO program serves over 200 undergraduate students who are minimally resourced, first in their family to attend college, and/or have a disability. Services include: individualized academic coaching, peer mentoring, cultural enrichment, leadership opportunities, and access to campus resources.

Disability Resources

Students seeking disability accommodations should contact Disability Resources to establish eligibility. Accommodations are considered on an individual basis. For more information and to request accommodations, visit disability.wustl.edu. A broad range of accommodations, services, and advising are available to ensure equal access and opportunities for students with disabilities.

Every year, Cornerstone interacts with more than 2,000 students, making it one of the most highly utilized offices on campus.